As incredibly difficult as I found this class, it was rewarding. STOUTHEU IS AN EXCELLENT TEACHER AND DESERVES A RAISE. (The homework could have been a lot less time consuming, though)

This was my first programming experierence and even though this class was difiicult, I really enjoyed it. You were a great instructor in the way you simplified the concepts for us to understand. Your jokes and humor made me want to come to class everyday. I really appreciated all that you did in this class to help us become better programmers and standents. Thanks!

Additional Comments:

Stoytchev is a great teacher, but due to the difficulty of the homeworks, it was very hard to learn from them.

I felt like I was learning parts of the language but not really how to use it to problem solve with it much,
It was like learning addition & then being expected to find the convergence &/or sum of an infinite series w/out knowing how to approach it or solve it at all.
The homework was very difficult & impossible to learn from.

Additional Comments:

Although I learned a lot, I feel like you took a sink or swim approach to this class. I never took a programming class before and I was severely behind students who had already took courses in programming. I thought this was an introduction to programming but the course covered topics that I had no clue about. I devoted a huge amount of time to this class and will probably get a bad grade regardless. Vlad and Adam didn't help in lab because the examples they did were too hard and didn't cover the basics. Overall I was pretty disappointed in this class and also with myself. I tried everything to do well in this class and got nothing for my effort. The homework didn't help me learn the concepts in lecture and basically spent the entire week slaving and worrying about this class and the homework.

Additional Comments:

This was by far the best class I've taken so far. Although it demanded much more work than my other classes, I feel that I've learned a lot and I've found that the homework is fun, albeit challenging.

Coming into the class (with programming experience) I thought that this might be some hum-drum introduction course where we wouldn't explore much beyond the basics. I'm happy to have been proven wrong.

This class expanded my knowledge in the C language, programming in general, and in overcoming challenges. I was surprised by the high standards set (especially by Vlad), but they really drove me to put a lot of effort into the class.

It may have been very arduous for many of the students (even with experience, it was a challenge for me), but we will all grow stronger for it.

May the Force be with you!

The course is extremely difficult during the second half, I felt like we were cramming in way too much information in a very little time. The homework system is fundamentally flawed, but it would be difficult to fix. It is very discouraging doing the homework because everything can look right on your computer but the grader gives you a zero. Because of this class, I'm not sure if I want to continue a pathway to become a Computer Engineer. The tests were somewhat unfair because a lot of them contained information that were testing one's computer background rather than the information covered. Professor Stoytchev is nice and his lectures are captivating, but the material is extremely difficult. Some of the TA's weren't very friendly to us as beginners in the course and expect us to know information and concepts we had never heard about. In the end, I think Professor Stoytchev has the potential to make a good class, but needs some changes in the material.

Additional Comments:

PLEASE revise how you do the homeworks. I think it would be incredibly beneficial to start incredibly easy/basic (like almost laughably simple, just so we can learn the basic concept) and then work up gradually until the final 2 or 3 problems are quite difficult. I think this would really help students to enjoy programming more and not get discouraged so easily. To put it simply, it is virtually impossible for brand new programmers to take a quick 50-minute overview of a complex concept in lecture and implement it in genius-level homework problems (thanks to Ulad). Honestly, spending 15-20+ hours per week on homework and I still didn't fully understand things. Just saying.

Additional Comments:

The class was very good and educative. Alex teaches very good and puts extra things in the class which entirely prevents lack of attention, Although, homeworks that given is way above our level but I actually found it educative since I am planning a career on this major. Although there is a issue of grading for homework but I don't think there is a solution for that.

Additional Comments:

This class was my first taste of programming. The workload was brutal, but everything felt necessary. The lectures were engaging and the grader filled me with revulsion. I learned a lot, but I'm happy I don't have to sink my life on the assignments any more. Good work!

I don't think that you should encourage people to drop this course, instead you should be helping them succeed. It makes students think you don't care.

Also, in the beginning of the class you said that this class was an introduction to programming, for people who never have programmed before, but it wasn't. It was for people that already had programming knowledge.

- Good teacher, presents material in an easy to understand way.
- Homework system (using automatic grader) was excellent. It really challenged me and helped me to develop better programming skills/habits.
- Only thing I would change is changing the lab schedule so that the material covered in the homework is covered in the lab the week we are assigned the homework, not the week after.

Additional Comments:

I really enjoyed this class! I wish the homework a week prior to a test would have been more relevant to the test. It limited my study time. Homework was very time consuming and interfered with other activities frequently.

Additional Comments:

The grader was unnecessarily harsh and led to frustration and, I'm sure, caused people to give up rather quickly.

Additionally, for an entry-level class, the homework was incredibly difficult. I've had years of programming experience before this class, including a software internship at Rockwell Collins, and I had trouble solving any of the problems on the later homeworks.

The use of the new grading system automated by a computer is a great idea. However, the problems on the homework and extra credit proved to be so difficult that I stop learning and found myself to become a failure. I wish I had taken this class before this new addition because this is the first time it has been used and the class as a whole suffered from it. It helped some students but most of us could not find success.

THIS CLASS WAS TOO DIFFICULT TO BE AN ENTRY LEVEL COURSE. THE HOMEWORK WAS TOO DIFFICULT FOR US TO EVER LEARN ANYTHING.

YOU'RE VERY GOOD AT WHAT YOU DO AND WE CONSIDER YOU A FATHER OF ROBOTICS, BUT WE ARE JUST LEARNING, SO YOU SHOULD TAKE IT EASY ON US AND NOT EXPECT US TO KNOW EVERYTHING.

Additional Comments:

Prof. Staytcher is, by far, my favorite professor this semester. He gets along well with the students and clearly has a passion for what he's doing.

I know a lot of people complained about the difficulty of the course and the homework but I definitely see courses like this as a beacon of hope for producing better programmers in an industry that continues to be flooded with mediocrity and poor software. I wouldn't want a programming class taught any other way.

I realize this is a difficult course. I appreciate that we have to work hard. But I spent way too many hours doing my homework for this class. I understood every concept. I feel sorry for those who got left behind. Although this course was a lot of work, you're a cool instructor and I enjoyed coming to class. I hope I'll be able to take another one of your classes.

I believe, as do many of my peers, that the things that were requested of us were way over our heads for being first time programmers. The lectures were well prepared but hard to understand. It was hard to keep up with the syntax required to actually do the programs & I believe they were not covered at all. I'm still not sure how to accurately create a function or a structure. My goal is to simply pass this class, but I'm not even sure I will be able to do that, the way this class was structured made it so much more difficult than it should've been.

Additional Comments:

This class was really hard for my first time programming, but I was glad I was pushed. The homework got too hard too fast for learning later material well.

Also, sorry for exposing you to the Star Wars Holiday Special.

Additional Comments:

The homework should be of the mindset where you start easy to learn the concept and then progress from there. Didn't learn material well enough because of this problem. Labs could be more effective in teaching concepts involved in the homework.

Was a really interesting class and made me learn a lot. Was a wake up call too. Great professor. He had a sense of humor so we wanted to come to lectures and hereally wanted his students to learn.

I think the only real problem with the class was a disconnect between the lectures and labs, and that was mostly cleared up by the end (TAs going on tangents instead of covering the latest lecture material.)

Additional Comments:

Hard stuff. TA's need to be more basic when explaining. It seems as though they teach the more advanced students & leave the less advanced in the dust.

Additional Comments:

This was my absolute favorite course / instructor in any level of schooling I have had. The tests were hard but they pushed me to learn a lot. This was the only class I can truly say I enjoyed attending. I hope to have Alex again as a Professor someday!

P.S. - The grader sucks but I liked the instant feedback.

P.P.S. - Vlad is a pretty cool guy as well

I have to say coming into this class was scary. I had no programming knowledge whatsoever, and now, I'm more than happy to have. Alex has been my greatest teacher at ISU even though it has only been my first semester. Alex is involving and cares about his students. I can't wait to push myself in Cpr E 575 next semester. ;)

Also, Vlad is the man next to Stoytchev, But really, who is who's Padawan?

-Yes!

He encouraged people to drop instead of helping them improve in this course. I have had trouble seeking help in the course because it was not very available. They have an automated grader that says whether the homework is right or wrong, but doesn't say what you did wrong. The authorities of this course refuse to implement it into the grader so it is difficult to know what you did.

Additional Comments:

Never returned lab exams.
 Require less hw, assignments completed
 as hw gets more complex/time consuming.
